

Chalet Alaska Chamonix, France

What we love...

We love the cosy corners in this property, from the mezzanine floor to the TV snug to the hot tub outside.

Snuggled at the foot of the mountains, Chalet Alaska is a luxury ski chalet in Chamonix that provides a beautiful base for a group of friends of family.

Modern rustic woods and stone and a neutral palette create a relaxing backdrop in this spacious, light and airy chalet.

Each of the five bedrooms has its own en-suite bathroom and TV, so if you feel you need a bit of time to yourself, you can treat it like your own hotel room.

But this is a property made with socialising in mind. At the heart of Chalet Alaska is a huge, statement fireplace, with vast chimney escaping into the roof. There's room for your whole party to gather round the fire here, either for big celebrations or simply quietly marking the end of each day. Sofas are gathered all around and floor-to-ceiling windows under a vaulted roof give you picture postcard panoramic views of the mountains as you sit and chat to friends over a few glasses of bubbly.

Adjacent is a wonderful and well-equipped kitchen area, and alongside that a spacious but welcoming dining room, with refectory-style dining table and views of the mountains; an idyllic spot for a convivial dinner of fine wines and excellent food.

There's also a separate TV area where the kids can chill out while the grown-ups chat in the evenings, or for you to escape to for a film on a snowy afternoon.

Outside, there's a delightful garden and a large south-facing terrace where you can enjoy your morning coffee in the sunshine, and relax in the outdoor hot tub with a glass of bubbly when you return from the slopes in the afternoons.

In the evenings, sneak out here to enjoy the mountain air with a nightcap, and bid goodnight to the mountains, looming over Chalet Alaska, keeping watch until morning.

For larger parties, Chalet Alaska can be taken alongside one or two of its sister properties, Chalet Saphir (5 bedrooms) and Chalet Azurite (6 bedrooms), perfect for multiple family groups or a corporate trip.

Eating

Good food and fine wines are cornerstones of a stay at Chalet Alaska should you opt for a catered service on your luxury holiday.

On arrival, you'll enjoy a champagne reception by the roaring fire to get you in the holiday mood, and then the fun begins.

Each morning, a filling and delicious breakfast is served to set you up for the day and when you return in the afternoon, tea is ready for you. Just when you start to feel peckish again, pre-dinner canapés arrive to whet your appetite for your evening meal.

Dinner is a highlight at Chalet Alaska – imaginative menus combined with high quality ingredients, local wherever possible. Any food preference and dietary requirements will be taken into careful consideration, and early children's dinner can be provided if required.

If you choose to stay in Chalet Alaska on a self-catered basis, a pre-arrival shop can also be arranged for you to ensure you have some essentials in before you arrive.

And you will almost certainly want to make the most of Chamonix's lively restaurant scene, a short walk from the chalet.

Kids

Chalet Alaska is a welcoming and warm place for kids, an excellent choice for a group of families looking for a luxury ski chalet to share.

The chalet's proximity to the ski lift is a huge bonus for families with children, especially being so close to Le Savoy beginner's slopes.

There's a quad bunk room which is sure to appeal to little ones, with chunky wooden bunk beds to snuggle down into. And tweens and teens will love the mezzanine level with its private en-suite bedroom and three beds that look straight up through skylights to the stars.

Cots and highchairs can be provided for smaller guests and childcare can be arranged on request.
