

Cesa del Louf Arabba, Dolomites

What we love...

We love the unique wellness area, residing in an ancient, vaulted cellar, and featuring an indoor swimming pool with stunning views of the summits.

Perched on the hillside near the lovely village of Arabba and surrounded by the towering peaks of the Dolomites, Cesa del Louf is a lovingly restored historic farmhouse. Brimming with charm and character, this luxury ski chalet is built from ancient wood and local stone, and every corner reveals another fascinating detail, such as antique locks and decorative antlers.

With its wooden beams and crackling log fire, the open plan living space is the heart of Cesa del Louf. Whether you're whipping up a feast in the kitchen or curled up on the comfortable sofa, you'll witness sunlight pouring in through the south-facing windows and breathtaking views of the summits. Outside, the wraparound balconies, terraces and large garden spaces allow you to get a closer look, or enjoy a sun-soaked barbecue in the warmer months.

Perhaps Cesa del Louf's most impressive feature, however, is its 200m² wellness area, residing in the atmospheric cellar with vaulted stone ceilings. It's hard to choose between unwinding in the sauna, Hammam, whirlpool, relaxation area, or the indoor swimming pool with stunning views of the mountains. Once you're fully relaxed, head to the cosy cinema for a movie night with loved ones.

The chalet accommodates 16 guests in five beautifully charming bedrooms across the maso (main house) and masetto (separate cottage). Some bedrooms have a mezzanine, ideal for little ones who need to be little closer to their adults; others have leafy plants and French doors leading out onto the terrace. Surrounded by pastures and woodland, and just a stone's throw from tourist destinations Venice and Lake Garda, Cesa del Louf is the perfect base for summer alpine escapes and luxury ski holidays alike.

One of the great pleasures of staying at self-catered Cesa del Louf is preparing meals in its spacious kitchen, which is open to the dining area and equipped with a pantry. In the winter, gather round the enormous dining table for delicious home-cooked meals with the flickering log fire and moonlit summits as a backdrop. Come summer, the outdoor dining area and barbecue beckon for lazy al fresco lunches in the sunshine.

Would you prefer to relax in the spa area while your meals are prepared for you by a professional? A private chef can be arranged for an additional charge, along with a waiter, butler, and driver, for the ultimate luxury experience.

Kids

Most of Cesa del Louf's bedrooms have space for little ones, whether on a charming mezzanine or in an adjacent room. This makes it the perfect chalet for groups comprising multiple families, as each can claim their own family suite.

Children will adore the indoor swimming pool and whirlpool, not to mention the cinema room where they can settle down with a film after a long day on the slopes. There's a workstation for teens who need to catch up on homework, and expansive outdoor areas that are ideal for exploring during the summer, or building snowmen during the winter.

Travelling with children could hardly be easier at Cesa del Louf, thanks to the private helipad allowing you to fly right to your door. And if you'd like a child-free evening, professional babysitting can be arranged for an additional cost.
